REFERENCE GUIDE TO CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY RESOURCES FOR MINISTRY

If we have left out your organization, it was not intentional. If you have an organization, or know of others available to serve the Body, please let us know. We want to make our Reference Guide as comprehensive as possible. The Trumpeter encourages everyone to get involved in their community, in the area they feel God's leading, by volunteering your services/talents. You are indispensable to the Body of Christ.

A comprehensive assessment is conducted for all individuals who are referred to Spectrum. Adolescents who meet the diagnostic criteria for psychoactive substance abuse are referred to the appropriate levels of care including: Outpatient, Residential, and Day treatment. Outside referrals are made as indicated. All services are confidential.

Criteria for Treatment Placement

The following dimensions are used in treatment and placement. Each dimension is assessed on a scale of one to five, depending upon severity.

1. Pattern and degree of substance use/potential for withdrawal.
2. Physical complications.
3. Psychiatric complications.
4. Life areas impairment.
5. Treatment acceptance/resistance.
6. Client control of use/relapse issues.
7. Recovery environment.

This assessment process minimizes treatment inconsistencies by placing individuals into appropriate levels of care.

With the consent of clients, the assessment and placement determinations may be provided to families, courts, employers or other concerned parties. Families are encouraged to participate in the assessment process because they often provide an invaluable source of information in determining how best to help their loved ones.

Crisis line offers guide to services for needy

By KAREN SAMPLES
Staff Writer

If you are temporarily between jobs and in need of a little cash, do not despair.

Broward County has several emergency assistance programs for people on the verge of homelessness. And for those who end up on the street, the Salvation Army offers shelter and counseling.

Cammy Gibson, director of social services at the Salvation Army, recommends referring needy people to services rather than giving them money.

To find out what help is available in Broward, call the Community Service Council's crisis line. The council is a private, nonprofit agency that coordinates social services. It evaluates an individual's needs and refers him or her to churches, social workers, the Salvation Army or other agencies.

The Salvation Army, at 1445 W. Broward Blvd., Fort Lauderdale, serves single men and women and homeless families.

Families also can get help at The Lord's Place, at 1077 SE 22nd Ave., Pompano Beach, 941-7460.

For people who are in a financial crisis, emergency money is available through the Community Service Council, 467-6333; the Salvation Army, 463-4572; Catholic Community Services, 462-2884; or the Broward County government.

The following can be obtained through the county:

- Emergency assistance, up to a month, for people who have had a temporary, total interruption of income. Help given only to those who can resume payment of household expenses in the following month.

For information, contact county social workers at the Mills Multipurpose Center in Fort Lauderdale, 587-5833; the South Satellite Courthouse in Hollywood, 963-7500 ext. 260; the Pompano Beach Multipurpose Center, 786-2121; or the Deerfield Beach Multipurpose Center, 831-1230.

- Restricted emergency assistance for people with a medical problem that prevents them from working. Assistance available up to three months. For information, call 587-5833.

- Homeless case management program. Helps families and individuals become self-sufficient by covering the cost of apartment rental up to three months. Call 765-4841.

- Boarding home program. Provides short-term placement for medically needy and homeless people. Call 587-5833.

Help for elderly a phone call away

Herald Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — There's a new toll-free telephone number for friends or relatives of elderly people who want to find them rides to the doctor or get meals delivered to their door.

The Eldercare Locator gives callers the numbers of local social-service agencies where they can request help for their older friends and relatives.

The number is 1-800-677-1116, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Working with a $500,000 federal contract, creators of the line say it will help identify which agency provides a particular service in a particular city or county.

The organizers say the service was conceived as a way to help relatives get help for an elderly person living at a distance.
